Glenn Land Dorpers began in 2000 with a few White Dorper x St. Croix ewes and expanded to a flock of 400 Purebred White Dorper ewes whose offspring have found numerous markets throughout the country. As a result of elevating irrigation water cost and reduction in acreage devoted to livestock, we have reduced our breeding ewe flock to 150 head and kept the very best. Consequently we will continue to bring high quality White Dorpers and Dorpers to the venues we have been attending in recent years. The market lambs finish on irrigated pasture and are purchased for farmer's markets, upscale restaurants and ethnic consumers. The breeding ewes and rams are sold at the ranch and online production sales. Many of the sheep sold at the ranch are purchased by buyers in the Midwest and even the East Coast. We strive to produce sheep that work hard, so you don't have to. In addition to the White Dorper flock, we have recently started a small flock of Dorpers in order to satisfy the needs of more of the prospective buyers that contact us.

Willow Creek Ranch raises registered White Dorper sheep. We are located in Northern California in Fairfield along Interstate 80, 60 miles east of San Francisco and 60 miles west of Sacramento. We are very excited about our White Dorpers. They are very adaptable and thrive on eating many varieties of different vegetation. They are hardy, muscular in size and very attuned to people and easy to work with. The fast growth rate is huge. Our ranch consists of acres of cross fenced lush irrigated pasture. We strive to keep the quality of our breed at the highest level to maintain customer confidence and demand. Our flock is marketed for meat, breeding and show stock.
